"ADAM AND EVA" GOES ACROSS WITH A BANG BEFORE PACKED HOUSE

Junior Class Play Has "It"—Presentation Is Pleasing

The Junior play, "Adam and Eva," was witnessed Monday night by a crowd which filled the auditorium and overflowed into the corridors. Seen from the spectator's point of view, no one would have imagined that which they so artlessly were living behind the foot-lights. Probably the remark most often heard was, "They all look their parts as if they were made for it." Much of the success of the play is due to the director, Miss Lillian Schroeder, credit must be given for her ability in selecting and training the cast. It is nearly impossible to say that one showed any more outstanding talent than another.

Carmelo Hughes, as the charming daughter of the wealthy, grouchy, Mr. King, realistically played by Bob King, assumed the role of a rich man's daughter and of the "poor working girl" with equal grace. Allan Beck was a typical earnest, plain, well-meaning business manager. Harry Steffenberg showed unusual talent in commanding a society man's palter.

John Tellasha was a very convincing supercilious son-in-law; Catherine Betger a most petite maid; Ruth Avery a sophisticated married older daughter; John Brogan an earnest young doctor whose own feelings for the girl of his choice proved to be the motive for his actions. Robert Dixon a garrulous "sponging" uncle; and Dorothy Runyard the typical old maid aunt type.

Employee at Herman's Resort Dies Friday

Alberarbo Brugnattelli, 65, an employee at Herman's Resort, died Thursday, Sept. 26, due to weakness of the heart.

Mr. Brugnattelli was born in Italy in 1865. In 1894 he came to America, and for the past 8 years has worked at Herman's Resort at Bluff Lake.

He was not married, and it is not known that he had any relatives in America.

Funeral services were held at the Catholic church on the Fox Lake road. Burial was at the St. Bede cemetery.

SHERIFF'S SECRETARY CRITICALLY INJURED NEAR LAKE VILLA SAT.

Mrs. Helen Pardini, secretary of Sheriff Deolittle, was severely injured Saturday night at Ames Corner near Lake Villa, when the car, driven by her husband, dropped from the embankment into the ditch.

Mr. Pardini was blinded by the undimmed lights of an oncoming car, a short distance from the bend where Grand Avenue joins Route 69.

Mrs. Pardini was rushed to St. Therese's hospital, Waukegan, where she is suffering from loss of blood, due to serious cuts and wounds.

Peterson Hurt
Another accident occurred to a Lake Villa grocer, Charles Peterson, who received severe injuries about his head and arms, when his car was in a collision.

Oakland School Lists Many Good Spellers

Spelling for the four upper grades at the Oakland school is not work; it is fun. This doesn't mean that it isn't hard, but when one attains a certain degree of skill, perfection, or proficiency in any line, that line becomes a pleasure.

Donald Minto, however, was the only one that can lay claim to an unmarred record for the first month of school.

Those whose averages were above 95% are: George Andersen, Helen Herman, Margaret Hughes, Mildred Cernak, Joe Sheehan, Grace Minto, Alice Golden, Sidney Hughes, Margaret Irish, James Waters and Jean Hughes.

Three living averages between 90 and 95% are: Warren Sheehan, Harold Behl and Harry Hallway.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kiarade entertained their daughters, Mrs. Warren Snyder and Mrs. Harold Wells, of Mundelein, and their families over the weekend.

Missouri Farmers Dig for Gold

Farmers in the region of Fox Creek Valley, Mo., are frantically digging for gold on the strength of an assayer's report that a recent strike is the richest yet found in Missouri. The gold discovery came about when August Poertner and Charles Shields, farmers, became curious about a brownish looking substance in the soil. They sent samples to a metallurgist, and received reports that the yield averaged $112 to a ton of clay.

ANTIOCH THEATRE IS RESPLENDENT IN NEW DECORATIONS

New Equipment Makes Local Playhouse Perfect Sound Theatre

The Antioch Theatre, resplendent with new fixtures and equipment, will soon be open to the public for their inspection and undoubted approval. The opening night is next Wednesday evening.

The place is in the process of undergoing a miraculous renovation. New upholstered seats, of a pleasing, comfortable design, and perfect expression of good taste are replacing the old ones.

The walls are being lined with a composition weave which insures the perfect sound theatre. They are ornamental as well as useful being of a rich luxurious pattern and coloring. The wall panels are being painted in a bright futuristic design.

New fixtures, which suggest the quiet dignity of a cathedral are being installed in the lobby and for side lights.

Everything about the theatre, walls, ceiling and fixtures have been specially treated to improve the acoustic qualities so that sound may be perfectly reproduced. New equipment for sound production and talking has also been added. The stage is being redecorated and the aisles are to be laid with new carpets. The contractors who are rapidly completing the work are Van Der Linde and Nelson.

A survey of the theatres of the nation indicates that in the newly equipped Antioch Theatre, Manager Fred Swanson has achieved the distinction of proving one of the best movie houses in the entire country for towns of this size.

"Main Street Crusader" to Talk Friday Evening at Waukegan High School

Anyone in the habit of listening to the "Main Street Crusader" over Station WORD, Chicago, will want to pile into the family bus and hop over to Waukegan High School Friday evening. Although Mr. Campbell is the regular speaker, Mr. Nichols will continue the series of talks about the "Main Street Crusader." What applies to most Main Street men will also fit Lake County men, but Mr. Nichols will probably make his speech of especial interest to Waukegan and Lake County Main Street men. The talk will begin at 7:15.

He spoke last night to the Retail Meat and Butchers' Association from the Congress building at Chicago.

URGE SPORTSMEN ADHERE TO LAW TO SAVE WATERFOWL

Widespread Drought Makes Local Conditions Deceiving, Bradford Says

Springfield, Oct. 2.—Because of inroads in the 1930 crop of wild ducks and geese, reported as resulting from the widespread drought, Director Ralph F. Bradford, of the state department of conservation, today issued an urgent appeal to sportsmen to adhere strictly to all federal and state regulations for protection of migratory waterfowl.

Water Shortage Has Effect
Director Bradford bases his appeal upon the information gathered recently in Canada, by Paul G. Redington, chief of the biological survey of the United States government, who stated:

"In these Canadian provinces, the shortage of water this year, and the utilization of additional lands for agriculture on the breeding grounds for birds have combined to reduce the hatch of the game species 50 per cent below that of last year, and the hatch, a year ago was too far below normal to be at all satisfactory."

Local Observations May Be Quite Misleading
Local observations may be quite misleading as to the abundance of wild fowl, Director Bradford said. It is anticipated that the lack of water over wide areas will cause great quantities of ducks to congregate on the few remaining waterways, giving the erroneous impression that wild ducks are increasing in numbers. The strict adherence to state and federal game laws, the director urged, will restrict excessive killing on the concentration areas. A lack of obedience to the laws, this year, he said, will effect irreparable losses in the game bird population.

FORMER FOX LAKER BUYS WAUKEGAN HARDWARE STORE

A. Lehman Becomes Owner and Manager of Grand Avenue Store

A. Lehman, for many years a resident of Fox Lake and a prominent figure in the civic life of that village where he was engaged in the hardware business as a partner with Mr. Buerger in the Fox Lake Hardware company, has purchased the Grand Avenue Paint and Hardware store in Waukegan.

After having sold his interest in the Fox Lake store to his partner, Mr. Lohman spent a year in Florida, returning recently to again enter the business in the county seat city. Mr. Lehman's extensive acquaintance throughout the county and his many years of experience in the business will be assets to him in his new location.

A large announcement of the offerings of Mr. Lehman's new store will be found on page three of this edition of the News.

Diamond Lake Decision May Set Precedent For Future Consideration

A decision declaring the waters of Diamond Lake to be private property and not open to the pleasure of the public was awarded to Attorney Benjamin H. Miller, Libertyville, and the Ray Brothers, who claimed private ownership of three-fourths of the lake bed, by the state department of purchases and construction.

This comes soon after the recent decision that Lake Zurich is private property. These decisions may be the basis for future consideration of contentions of other owners at other Lake county lakes, such as Oages, Grayslake, or Round Lake, although it is not believed that there are any large enough lake owners in Antioch vicinity to justify action of this nature.

Mr. and Mrs. Chet Waldo of the Antlers Hotel, returned last week after a delightful 15-day motor trip to Yellowstone National Park, the Black Hills, and other places of interest in the west and mid-west. In North Dakota they were the guests of Mrs. Waldo's sister. The couple drove over 5,000 miles.

Fair Week, Long Anticipated, Is Nearly at Hand

FAIR WEEK is nearly here—at last! Fair week is something like Christmas—one looks forward to it for months and months, and then, one day he wakes up and finds that it is really here, and he may begin realizing all of his anticipations.

If you have a hen which can't be surpassed for looks, just to gaze at it makes your mouth water for that New Year's dinner—bring it to the fair. Or if you are an expert needlewoman, and are accustomed to making dainty little Christmas presents, why not enter them in the fair? Also these prize Thanksgiving recipes might just as well be put into practice.

More detailed information regarding Antioch's first Country Fair, which is combined with the seventh annual exhibition of the Antioch-Lake Villa Poultry association, will be found in Section 3 of today's edition of the News.

Heart Attack is Fatal To Former Farmer

A former resident of Antioch vicinity, Thomas F. Tiffany, 75, of North Chicago, succumbed to a sudden heart attack Monday at St. Therese's hospital in Waukegan.

Mr. Tiffany was born in Crystal Lake, July 4, 1855. He was superintendent of an icehouse for several years, after which he served on the Chicago police force. Later he moved to a farm near Antioch, moving six years ago to North Chicago.

Mr. Tiffany is survived by his widow, Elizabeth, three daughters and six sons. Three of the sons are police chiefs in northern Illinois towns. The daughters are: Mrs. Viola Watson, Mrs. Nellie Bristol, and Mrs. Eva Peters. The sons are: Chief of Police Lester T. Tiffany of Lake Forest, the Republican nominee for sheriff of Lake county; Chief Frank Tiffany of North Chicago; Clayton Tiffany, police head of Mundelein, Ill.; George; and two of Antioch, William and Ralph.

Services are to be held at the Holy Family church in North Chicago on Thursday afternoon followed by burial at Ascension cemetery near Libertyville.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH BEING RE-FINISHED

The Episcopal church is being refinished on the outside with new stucco by the Yopp Brothers of Grass Lake. The church has been in need of repair for some time, and a Building Fund was set aside for this purpose. One of the organizations most active in raising the fund has been the Ladies' Guild, the members of which worked constantly giving card parties and dinners.

It is expected that the work will be completed some time next week.

Mrs. N. L. Nelson is entertaining her bridge club this afternoon at her home.

Miss Grace Drom, who spent a month's vacation in California, returned this morning and resumed her duties at the State bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto S. Klass and children, who have spent the past month at San Antonio, Texas, returned today.

Visiting Squads Swamp Locals 21-20 and 14-6

The two non-conference practice games played Saturday with Fox Lake and Kenosha ended rather disastrously as far as the mere matter of score was concerned.

However, there were many boys who gained something more valuable than victory. The second team played the first half of the Fox Lake game, and for the majority it was their first game. After the first panic wore off, during which time Fox Lake scored three touchdowns, they held them.

Fox Lake's first touchdown was made by a medium-long forward pass followed by an in-run; their second was secured through a long endrun by their halfback; the third occurred when they had failed to make their downs, and decided to punt through in the Kenosha game the locals were all centered, they ran the ball.

Antioch's three touchdowns were scored during the second half, the first when McNell carried the ball the length of the field, after a line plunger; the second and third by in-runs. Fox Lake scored three extra points by successfully making their kicks where Antioch failed.

In the Kenosha game the locals' touchdown was made by an in-run. Kenosha's first resulted from a series of line plunges, mostly through left guards, and by intercepting a pass, they hooked a second.

After another week's grid practice, the boys ought to be in fine spirit to meet Arlington Heights on the Arlington field Saturday.

Mrs. Annie Kelly returned home recently from a trip to the East.

Robert Webb went to Harrisburg, Ill., Tuesday on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dunn have returned from New York with Mr. and Mrs. C. Buschman.

A LOOK INTO THE FUTURE

Throughout the past months a group of the leading men and institutions of this community have been sponsoring an advertising campaign for our town development. The campaign has consisted of a series of full pages which have been running every week in the Antioch News.

These sponsors to this community program as well as the Antioch News wish to express their appreciation of the hearty approval which this series has met.

The many favorable comments, the stimulated interest in our town's progress, and the number of local progressive ideas which have been forthcoming have, indeed, been gratifying. The expert advice, based on years of study and on comparative facts and figures with other towns has furnished us with the best available information on how we can better our town and make it more progressive. The campaign has STIMULATED ACTION, and ACTION backed up by constructive thinking is the thing we need.

Let's continue the good work, with constructive action all along the line. We know what it takes to make our city more outstanding, even, than it is. Let's keep an "action program" in effect. Let's safeguard our future by doing our part to make our town the one outstanding town in ten. Let's carry on with an "action program" for increasing health, wealth, and prosperity for all. Community delinquencies remove, community possibilities improve.

Thomas A. Bolger Tells Why He Is In Representative Race

(Advertisement)

In announcing my candidacy for State Representative, I believe it would be of interest to the voters to give the reasons that have prompted me to be a candidate.

At the 1928 general election, I was also a candidate for the same office and on the face of returns was apparently defeated by Richard J. Lyons by 2606½ votes. However, an investigation of the returns of the election showed so many grave and startling discrepancies in the count of the votes that I decided to contest the election and ask for recount. My decision to contest the election was influenced particularly by the returns from Libertyville Township in Lake County. In each of the three districts in this township there were grave irregularities in the counting of the vote for Representative. In the 3rd Libertyville District (Mundelein) the total vote counted for candidates for Representative exceeded the possible vote by 296 if every person voting in that District cast three (3) votes for that office.

More votes were counted in two other Lake County Districts (Cuba and Benton No. 4) than the maximum vote possible to cast.

This impossible count made the returns void in these three districts (Cuba, Benton 4 and Libertyville 3) as far as the vote for Representative was concerned. This much was conceded by the chairman of the Legislative Committee at Springfield in charge of this contest.

By eliminating the entire vote for Representative from these three districts, Mr. Lyons' lead was reduced from 2606½ to 592½.

An examination of the tally books from the first Libertyville District showed that an error of 110 votes was made in Mr. Lyons' favor in totaling the votes he received on split tickets. Then in McHenry county, the canvassing board made an error of 109 votes in Mr. Lyons' favor in the Gratton District. The errors in these two districts reduced Mr. Lyons' lead to 352½ votes.

Again because of the action of the election officials in counting the straight Democratic ballots as one vote for me instead of three votes as required by law, I was deprived of 1366 votes in the following districts:

McHenry county, Dorr (Dist. 1) 426
Woodstock 109
McHenry county, Hebron 100

Lake county, Libertyville 1 192
Lake county, Libertyville 2 182
Lake county, Antioch 1 116
Lake county, Shields 5 (Lake Forest) 232

Boone county, Leroy 31

Boone county, Poplar Grove 44

Total 1356

In addition, through minor errors in Waukegan Districts No. 5 and 11, I was deprived of 49½ votes, making a total of 1405½ additional votes that I should have received.

Thus by eliminating the votes in the districts wherein the returns were void because of an impossible count, and by deducting the errors in Mr. Lyons' favor in two other districts and by crediting me with the additional 1405½ votes that I should have received, it can readily be seen that I established a prima facie case with 1000 votes to spare.

Affidavits covering all the election districts mentioned were submitted to the election contest committee of the Legislature. These affidavits in practically every case could be verified and substantiated by the returns of election on file in the Secretary of State's office, also in the offices of the County Clerks of the three counties.

In spite of the fact that the evidence submitted showed a margin of 1000 votes for a prima facie case, a recount of the votes was refused and the contest dismissed.

I protest that decision and my candidacy may be considered in the future direct to the people of this District.

It should be emphasized that in any election or election contest personal ambitions or personal interests count for little. The public interest should always be paramount. If there is reason to believe through ballot irregularity, of any kind, the will of the people has been thwarted rightfully elected officials, then a situation arises that should command the concern of every fair-minded citizen.

In this case there is good reason to believe that the people of this Dis-

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

WITH fruits and berries plentiful and cheap, and sugar selling at a price as low as we have seen in a generation, this is the ideal year for special activity in home preserving. Put up in attractively sealed and labeled glasses and jars, jams and jellies will make inexpensive and deeply appreciated Christmas gifts for friends and relatives when the Yule season rolls around.

A few juniper berries, obtainable at the drug store, placed in a frying pan that has been heated until very hot, will release aromatic fumes which will quickly drive the odor of cooking out of the house.

OPPORTUNITY

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Opportunity, the proverb says, knocks at every man's door at least once. Perhaps some ears are duller than others and fail to hear the knocking. Some may be too sound asleep or too deeply engrossed with trivial affairs to recognize the summons, but at any rate the visitor, receiving the cold welcome, passes on to the next door, and possibly never returns again. It is strange how many men are sure that they have never had a chance, and how equally sure they are that if they had had they would soon have had the world by the tail. That is the way Wallace feels. He is an old man now, and I have known him ever since he was a young fellow in the town near which I lived. He was always ambitious, apparently, and eager to do something worth while, but, as he says, he has never had a chance. He has been trying something different every few years in an endeavor to discover something that he likes, something that he is fitted for, something that he can throw his whole soul and energies into, but the opportunity has never come. He wanted to be a lawyer, but he did not have the money to go to college, and working his way seemed too hard a task. He was a traveling salesman for a time, but he saw no future in that line of work, and so he gave it up. He bought a little store, but there was so much competition that he went onto the rocks there. And so it had gone; he never got anywhere; he never had a chance.

It never occurred to him that other fellows whom he had known as a boy with no more money and no more opportunity than he had had were pretty well up in the world now. Miller was looked upon as the most successful lawyer in that part of the state, and he had started with nothing. Connor owned a line of chain stores and he had begun as an errand boy in the little grocery store on Sangamon avenue, and Carson, who had been Wallace's seat mate in grammar school, was nationally known as an author and a scientist. He could not see that they, having no apparent opportunity had made one, each for himself, and by hard work and persistence had conquered difficulties.

The trouble with most of us is that what we mean by an opportunity is an easy chance to do something that is pleasant, and that is sure without effort on our part to result in a soft bed.

"What I'm looking for," a young fellow said to me once, "is an easy job with a big salary attached." He never found it.

"Opportunities might be more easily recognized," a newspaper writer recently wrote, "if they did not so often come disguised as hard work."

That's the difficulty. When opportunity knocks, we expect to find an expensive automobile waiting outside to convey us to a soft job.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Reality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 28.

The Golden Text was, "Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life" (John 8:12).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "The night is far spent, the day is at hand; let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light" (Romans 13:12).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth and Love enlighten the understanding, in whose light shall we see light"; and this illumination is reflected spiritually by all who walk in the light and turn away from a false material sense" (D. 510).

Channel Lake Country Club News

The season for the Channel Lake Country club is fast drawing to a close, although each Sunday finds a large number of cars grouped around the club house, and many people on the golf course. The club house will be kept open until about the 15th, and the work on the grounds continued also, but all serving of food or soft drinks has been discontinued for the season.

The cold weather of the last few days will no doubt bring about the closing of the few remaining cottages around the lakes, but Sundays through October will find many of the members driving up for the day. Aside from the pleasure of meeting one's friends, the beautiful foliage along the countryside forms an added attraction which lures the city people out into the open.

Side Dishes Point Up Flavors

By ETIENNE ALLIO, Chef,
Hotel New Yorker, New York City

SIDE dishes—the various slaws, a bit of fruit prepared in some unusual manner—point up the flavors of the dishes with which they are served, and go far toward giving the added zest of surprise and variety.

Deserving a far greater popularity than they now enjoy, it is hard to say why, except for the ordinary cole slaw, they so seldom appear upon the home table, unless guests are present. They are inexpensive and easy to prepare, and there seems to be no good reason why they should not become regular items of the family menu.

CHEF ALLIO

Peach and Pineapple Curry.—Fill the bottom of a casserole with a layer of sliced, canned pineapple. Dot with butter and sprinkle with two teaspoons brown sugar and one teaspoon curry powder. Add a layer of canned peaches and sprinkle with the same amounts of brown sugar and curry powder. Repeat the process until the dish is filled. On the top layer, which should consist of peaches, double the amount of sugar and curry. Bake for one-half hour in a moderate oven. For those who like more or less curry, the amount may be varied. Delicious with roast lamb.

Cheese Slaw.—Let one pint of shredded cabbage stand in cold water until fresh and crisp. Dry and mix with five tablespoons grated cheese, one teaspoon mixed mustard, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon brown sugar, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, few grains cayenne. Add three-fourths cup buttermilk, mix thoroughly. Pour over the cabbage and cheese. Garnish with green pepper rings.

Banana Vinaigrette.—Peel and slice lengthwise four or five large, firm bananas. Pack in shallow casserole. Mix together one tablespoon vinegar, one-half cup beef stock, one-fourth cup brown sugar. Pour over bananas. Dot with four large tablespoons butter and bake in hot oven for twenty minutes. Serve with roast beef.

5th Grade "Tour" Lumber Yard for Geography Lesson

The sixth grade have been writing poems and the two best were selected to be published. One is given here and the other will appear next week.

WINTER

Sorrow, sorrow, winter has come.
The cold snow flies,
It covers the ground
With a pretty white blanket.
The birds fly south to the warm country.
The bright green leaves are down from the trees.
The snow covers them up,
Alas, they are gone,
But they will be back when spring has come.
The birds will sing;
The brook will trickle merrily over the rocks.

—Robert Mortensen.

"Going places to see and hear things." The fifth grade made a trip to the Lumberyard on Tuesday, where they were shown over the yards by Mr. Graves who explained the various kinds of wood, and the prices to them. This is a lesson in practical Geography, in which subjects they are now studying the lumber industry of the west.

The fifth grade are going in for golf. Yes, it is Tom Thumb golf, that is, the course is a miniature one, but physical proficiency won't drive you to the first hole in this game. Only those who can remember that "spaghetti" is spelled with an "h", qualify here. It is an eighteen-hole course, and the distance between each hole is marked off into ten divisions. Thus, every time a student gets a perfect spelling lesson, their individual tack may be moved forward a hole. But—a 40 in spelling leaves the boy or girl trailing. At present Florence Hackett's tack leads the rest. A contest by "rows" is also being held for Arithmetic.

Tuesday they took blue prints and black prints of ferns for their notebooks in Nature Study.

Following on the heels of the Junior play comes word in another three years other aspirants to stage fame may step into the limelight. The eighth grade students are starting their career by dramatizing parts of the story, "Captain Blood," by Raphael Sabatini, which they are studying in Reading Class.

The Antioch Grade School Baseball team suffered a close defeat at the hands of Lake Villa, when they played them on the Lake Villa field Monday, the score being 8-7. Yesterday Lake Villa played them here in hard ball.

Friday the Grayslake League will journey to our school to match baseball stars.

The third and fourth grades are progressing uneventfully with their work, but several activities have been planned for the bright October days.

New drinking fountains have been put in on both sides of the new building, which far surpasses the old drinking fountains for ease and absence of muddy areas. A large stone basin built out from the side of the building prevents any overflow.

The eighth grade were surprised at the knowledge displayed by two first grade boys, Frank Petty and Jimmy Roof, who each entertained them by reading Tuesday morning. The first grade class has begun work on the bridge, which is to be a part of their boat exhibit at the Fair. Other classes are also continuing their work along this line.

Hints For Homemakers

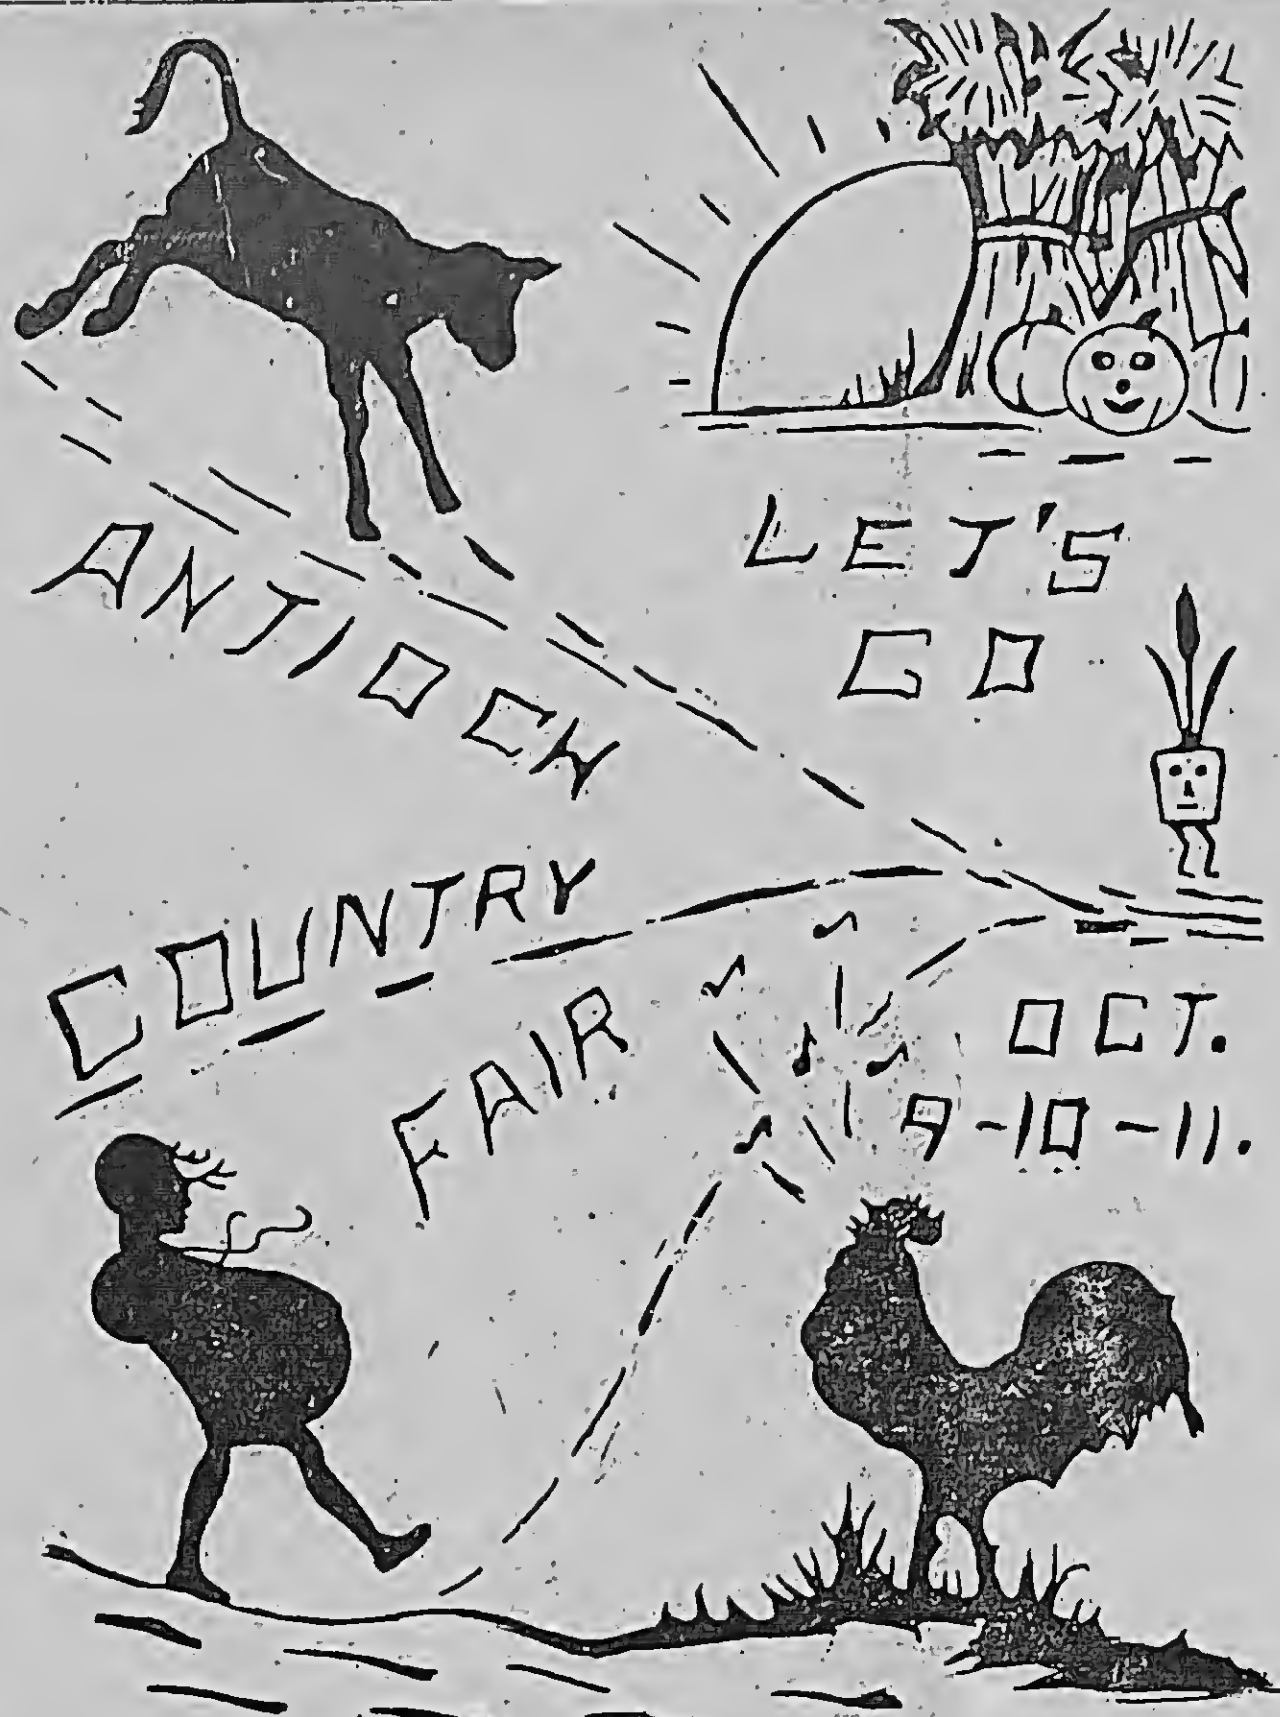

By Jane Rogers

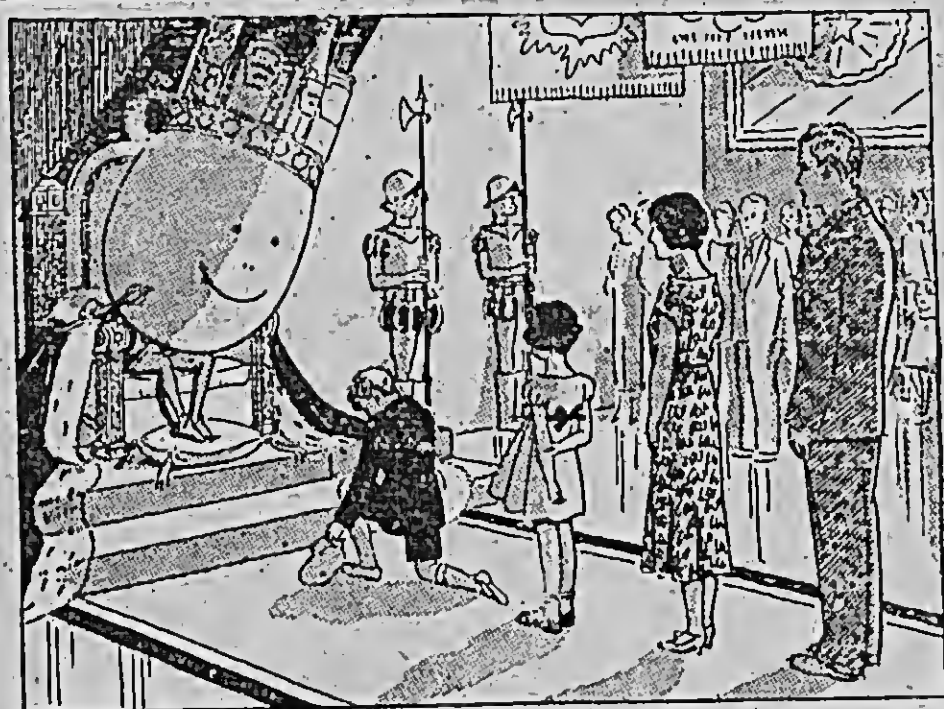

FOR the best toast you have ever tasted, lay the slices of bread in the open oven for a few minutes before toasting them. In addition to improving the flavor, it makes the toast more digestible, and it browns much more evenly.

In providing for your family's health during the summer, remember that iced beverages are by no means a luxury; that on the contrary they are as healthful as they are delicious. The fruit juices furnish vitamins, the sugar is a much needed source of quick energy, while the beverages as a whole replenish in the body the liquid lost in the form of perspiration.

Lowly Egg Is Royal Dish To Substitute For Meat

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

EGGS are perhaps our most successful substitute for meat in the average diet. And their preparation may be varied in such numerous and attractive ways that they are enjoyed by almost everyone.

Even those who are inclined to ignore eggs on a menu may be tempted by some delightful novelty in their preparation. Especially is this true of men, who are quite enthusiastic about dressed-up egg dishes.

Since eggs are rather neutral in flavor, their taste is greatly improved by the addition of such zesty condiments as Tomato Ketchup and Chili Sauce, Spanish Olives, Worcestershire Sauce and Prepared Mustard in the cooking. These condiments then blend perfectly with the other ingredients to produce a dish of truly delightful flavor.

The following egg combinations have been approved as most delicious. I am sure you will enjoy serving them often:

Egg and Sardine Canapés: 1 small egg, boneless sardines; 3 hard cooked eggs; Mayonnaise Salad Dressing; rounds or squares of bread; stuffed Spanish olives, sliced.

Mash sardines and spread a thin layer on bread, toasted on one side only. Chop the whites of eggs, moisten with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing and spread over the sardines in a generous layer. Sprinkle egg yolks that have been forced through a sieve over the top. Garnish with a slice of Stuffed Spanish Olive or thin slice of Sweet Onions and serve very cold.

Spanish Eggs: 1 tablespoon onion; 2 beaten eggs; 4 tablespoons Tomato Ketchup; parsley; Sweet Onions.

Mince onion and fry it slowly for a few minutes in butter. Add eggs and Tomato Ketchup and stir with a fork until eggs are cooked. Turn out on a hot platter, garnish with parsley, and serve with Sweet Onions.

Scalloped Eggs and Olives: Three spoons butter; 4 tablespoons flour; 2 cups milk; salt and pepper; 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce; 6 hard cooked eggs, cut in slices; 1/2 cup stuffed Spanish Olives, sliced; buttered crumbs.

Melt butter in a saucepan, add flour, and stir until well blended. Then add milk and stir until thick, seasoning with salt, pepper and Worcestershire Sauce. Last add eggs and Stuffed Spanish Olives. Pour into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle generously with crumbs, and brown in a hot oven.

Poached Eggs on Ham with Mock Hollandaise Sauce:

Prepare slices of toast, and on each place a slice of boiled or baked ham that has been heated in a skillet. On the ham place a poached egg, and cover with Mock Hollandaise Sauce.

Mock Hollandaise Sauce: 4 tablespoons butter; 2 tablespoons flour; 1/2 cup hot water; 1 egg yolk well beaten; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 6 tablespoons Mayonnaise Salad Dressing; 1/2 teaspoon Pure Vinegar.

Melt butter in a saucepan, add flour and stir until well blended. Then add hot water, egg yolk and salt and cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, and add Mayonnaise Salad Dressing and Vinegar. Serve over the ham and egg on toast.

Pickled Eggs: whole cloves; 1/4 teaspoon salt; dash of pepper; cinnamon; 1 teaspoon Prepared Mustard; 1/2 cup cold water; 1/4 cups Pure Vinegar.

Stick 4 whole cloves in each shelled egg. Mix salt, pepper, stick of cinnamon and Mustard with cold water, and add Vinegar, heated to the boiling point. Pour over the eggs and allow to stand in a closely covered jar for about 24 hours.

Soups Test Culinary Skill

BY ETIENNE ALLIO, Chef,
Hotel New Yorker, New York City

SOUP holds, and deserves, the honor of opening the evening meal in thousands of American homes.

Than a perfect soup there is no more delicious dish. Than a poor soup—watery and tasteless—there is no more ruinous prelude to what otherwise might have proved a thoroughly soul and appetite-satisfying repast.

To avoid the disaster of a really poor soup is not difficult. Fairly good results are easy to attain.

But to prepare the perfect soup? That is indeed an art which calls for all the housewife's skill in the choice and mixing of ingredients, and the use of seasonings. It is, however, an art which offers as its reward the heartfelt appreciation of all the diners at her board.

Potage à la Crème d'Épinards: Carefully wash and stem one-half peck of spinach. Cook in double boiler until tender, being sure that the water is boiling before putting the spinach in the boiler. Rub through a colander into a saucepan. Add two cups good stock. Season with salt, pepper, one teaspoon sugar, a pinch of mace. Bring quickly to the boiling point. Stir in one tablespoon butter rolled in one teaspoon flour. Cook one minute and remove from fire.

Potage Longchamps: Drain one can of peas into a saucepan. Add two slices of onion, three cups chicken stock, and one and a half teaspoons sugar. Bring to a boil, and simmer for one-half hour. Blend in a saucepan; one tablespoon flour with one tablespoon melted butter. Pour in slowly, stirring all the while, the pea mixture. Bring to boiling point; then remove and put through strainer. Add one cup milk and a few sprigs of fresh mint. Reheat, removing mint in about five minutes, after it has had an opportunity to impart its delicate flavor. Add one-half cup cooked vermicelli and season with salt and pepper.

Potage de Carottes: Wash, scrape and slice thin, twelve medium-size carrots. Place in saucepan with two tablespoons butter. Season with salt and one teaspoon sugar. Cook slowly, turning constantly until the carrots begin to color. Add two cups good broth and let carrots boil slowly to a glaze. Remove carrots and press through strainer. Return to the broth in the saucepan. Simmer until very hot, and serve.

Scout Rally Has Close Finish

From the moment that the snappy Troop 18 Scouts marched onto Tannery Field, Waukegan, hearing the council and national colors, the Annual Fall Rally became a thing of interest to the spectators gathered there last Sunday to see Lake County Scouting as practiced by seven representative troops of the council territory.

The royal blue neckerchiefs of Troop 1, American Legion, Waukegan, were everywhere in evidence in all of the events of the rally, and all of the events of the rally, and Troop 1 Scouts led in number of points until the very last competition, that in water boiling. In the meantime, Scouts of Troop 42, Lake Bluff, runners-up in two Anniversary Week Races, kept determinedly on, and when they scored eight points in the water boiling contest, they came out the victors in the afternoon's eight events by 29 points to Troop 1's 27 markers.

The close scores are an evidence of how well the two troops are and have been matched, and both deserve much credit for their true Scoutcraft ability.

Midget Troops Tie

Of equal interest to the two leading troops, was the competition among four troops made up for the most part of younger Scouts. These were the troops from St. Anastasia's, St. John's, St. Paul's, and St. Peter's churches, all of Waukegan. Troops 15, 16, and 17, from the three first named institutions, respectively, each scored 5 points and were in a triple tie for third place.

The Contests

The individual events of the rally were: the Review of troops, knot-tying, "human wheelbarrow" race, signalling (in the semaphore code), first aid (three bearer lift and stretcher carry), fire-by-friction (wood sets), and water boiling (two matches only, to start fire).

Troop 1 scored first place in the Review of troops, in knot-tying, signalling, and fire by flint and steel. They also scored second in the human wheelbarrow race and first aid carries, and a third in water boiling.

Troop 42 scored first in the human wheelbarrow race, first aid carries, and a third in water boiling.

Troop 12 scored first in the human wheelbarrow race, first aid carries, fire by friction (wood sets), and water boiling. Seconds were scored in signalling and in the two last named events.

Troop 15 won second place in the review of troops, and third places in knot-tying and first aid carries.

Troop 16 scored second place in knot-tying and third places in the human wheelbarrow race and signalling.

Troop 10 scored third place in the review of troops and a second and third place in fire by flint and steel.

Troop 14 was entered in but one event and did not place. Troop 2 was entered in the majority of the events and was very close in most of the events in which entered, but did not get in the scoring column. This latter troop is to be congratulated on its gameness and good sportsmanship, in keeping along with the other troops as it did.

Commissioners Present

In addition to members of the Scout Council and many parents and friends to witness the rally, Scout Commissioner Thompson was present to review the troops and preside at the rally.

Scout Executive Warren Blodgett was in charge of the field, and was ably assisted by Deputy Commissioner R. C. McBuffie, and Assistant Scoutmaster Arne Makela. Scouts Scoutmaster Arne Makela. Scouts Nellie Nielson of Troop 42 and Wm. Boyles were buglers. Scout Jackson Foster of Troop 16 was orderly for the council officers and Scout Donald Nellins of Troop 3 was scorer.

District Commissioners present and in charge of troops were John Logan Boyles in charge of Troops 2, 10, and 15; Eldon Landy in charge of Troops 1 and 14; Charles Sweetland in charge of Troop 18; and J. C. H. Lussmann in charge of Troop 42.

In addition to the above named officers in charge of troops were: B. J. Badger of Troop 2; Lewis E. Hatton of Troop 10; Senior Patrol Leader Thurman Baskin; Troop 16; Acting Scoutmaster Robert Nelson, Troop 1; and Robert T. Wright, Troop 42.

My Trip With The Gold Star Mothers To France

BY MRS. MARY A. MANN

Near St. Quentin were numerous little "shacks" that were erected as temporary homes for those who had been driven out of St. Quentin during the war. Leaving this place we moved in a northwesterly direction through Cambria, Baisieux, and as far north as Lille, where we remained for the night. After a bit of shopping the following day, we started again for Paris. We passed through beautiful country, with wonderful fields of grain—barley, rye, oats, and many beautiful fields of sugar beets, which, in a measure, redeemed the battle fields. In many places the work was being done by women and children. We saw men plowing with oxen, and a large flock of sheep being carefully guarded by dogs. There were many beautiful herds, well-groomed and arching bobbed tails.

We returned to Paris by way of Arras, Albert, Amiens, Montdidier, Neuvois, where we had tea, and Chantilly, reaching it late in the afternoon of June 7th.

We were free to attend the church of our choice on Sunday; Catholics naturally attended the Medells, and other members of our group wishing to see this ancient cathedral and hear its wonderful choir sing, also attended the morning services in the Old Church of England. A large male choir, bearing a gilded cross marched to the choir-room and altar, singing. The sermon was addresses especially to the Pilgrims, which we thoroughly appreciated. We all joined in singing "America," after which we returned to the hotel for lunch.

In the afternoon we drove around the city, viewing many of the historical sights and buildings; the Eiffel Tower; Concordia Square with its numerous monuments; and Napoleon's Tomb. I was much impressed with the beauty of the floors and columns, all of inlaid marble. Artificial light shone from a large crucifix above an altar, depicting the light of God's love shining from above. A room lighted in resplendent blue, is being prepared for Marshall Foch's final resting place.

The following day, White Monday, is a Catholic holiday in France, and many of the people left Paris. Monday was "Clean-up Day" at Louvre, so we could not visit this place of interest; however, in the afternoon, we drove to Versailles, noticing especially the wonderful paintings and tapestries, of the Palace many hundred years old, and the marvelous Hall of Mirrors. The table upon which the famous Treaty of Versailles was signed stands in an adjoining room.

Leaving the Palace of Versailles, we came out into an open court and here were besieged by souvenir vendors of every description, and it was almost impossible to pass them politely. Before reaching our buses we were blocked by an Arab with rugs across his shoulders. Our genial interpreter, Robert J. Neal, grasped him by the arm, and jerked him from the path, as he delivered a speech in a language not understood by us, which proved very effective in dealing with the rug vendor. Mr. Neal refused to translate this speech to us, with very good reason.

At the close of this glorious day, we returned to the hotel, and packed our trunks, preparatory to leaving Paris. That evening we were taken on an excursion, called "Seeing Paris by Night". We were fortunate in beholding the Eiffel Tower lighted, as this lighting takes place only twice a week. It was a vision of beauty that will forever remain in the minds of those who looked upon it.

HintsPALE BRUNETTES
SPARKLE IN GREENPause Before Jumping to
"Well-worn" Conclusion
To Determine Type

A young woman, who would probably be classed as a pale brunette appeared on the street, garbed in a purple dress, and my companion remarked, "Doesn't So-and-So look peevish today." And she did appear so. But figuratively closing my eyes to the dress, I closely scanned her features, and noted that they were no more sallow than usual. I had seen her the day before in a bright green dress, and she had seemed to glow with color.

Classification is made according to the color of the eyes and skin tones rather than on the color of the hair, although that enters into it, of course. Probably sixty or seventy per cent of American people would be classed in two types—the florid blond; or the pale brunette. Many times it is difficult to determine which class one belongs in, but after experimentation, it can be determined. Often one does not fit definitely in any, colors of several groups being unbecoming or becoming to them. Recently a beauty specialist said that there were more American women to whom a light shade of rachel powder would be suitable, than most realize, who go in for the flesh tones. Such being the case a list of colors becoming the pale brunette will first be given. Pale brunettes generally have hazel gray-brown or brown eyes.

Colors Becoming to the Pale Brunette
White—Cream-white good in all textures.

Black—Becoming in velvet and transparent materials.

Gray—Makes this type appear sallow and ill. Tans only can be worn. Brown—Very becoming, especially dull browns. Very bright brown makes the wearer look pale by contrast.

Yellow—All grayed tones of yellow and orange good.

Red—All dark orange-reds especially good. Henna very good.

Pink—Yellow-pinks good; rose-pinks make this type appear sallow.

Purple—To be avoided because it brings out yellow in the skin and makes it look sallow.

Blue—Green-blues good.

Green—Very bright tones especially good because they add warmth and reddish color to the skin.

Boy Scout Movement

In 1905 Daniel Carter Beard organized "The Sons of Daniel Boone" which united in 1910 with a similar group, "Woodcraft Indians," and became the Boy Scouts of America. Today scout organizations cover the globe with approximately two million members. The scout promises to "do my duty to God and country, help others at all times, and obey the scout law."

Chic Tailored Suit

This fashionable tailored suit is designed from mottled gray French woolen coating. The blouse is crepe de chine in the popular off-white shade. A gray fox scarf and beret in matching color complete the costume.

As if to verify this young lady's good taste comes a report from one of the leading fashion experts saying, "Dark, subdued shades, in very rich materials, will mark the new season. Flat crepes, velvets, wools in novelty weaves, plain tweeds and a new material resembling dull suede will be favored materials."

After glancing at the young lady's headgear, we are pleased to continue with the eminent fashion specialist's remarks. "The beret cap continues. Many velvet turbans are draped and fitted and worn back on the head exposing a high forehead. Double brims and a stiff sailor with generous brim are innovations."

A foreign lady, recently landed in America, would not need to consult a fashion model to be apprized of the fact that berets are "more the rage than ever. Let her come to Antioch, and—well, a glance to the wise is sufficient. She would soon come strutting out of a store with one perched upon her own head."

A Little Ingenuity
Will Find Substitute
For Vanishing Potatoes

The lowly potato, having been dug from its earthly bed, in pitifully small quantities, suddenly turns over and finds itself being hunted—a price set on its head—the prize animal of the chase. "I have eyes," says the potato, "You can't see me."

The potato knows its onions. Due to the recent drought, there is a scarcity of potatoes, not only in number but in size. So it behooves the economical to stir their stumps and substitute other foods, rich in carbohydrates occasionally. Spaghetti and macaroni are recognized as potato substitutes.

Baked Macaroni with Cheese

1 cup macaroni
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup milk
1-2 cup grated cheese
1 teaspoon salt
1-3 teaspoon pepper
1-8 teaspoon paprika
Boil macaroni in salted water until soft; drain and rinse with cold water. Put into buttered baking dish and cover with sauce. Cover top with grated cheese and bake 20 minutes in hot oven.

Sauce

Melt butter in saucepan; add flour, mix well and add cold milk slowly, stirring until smooth; add cheese, salt, pepper and paprika. Boil two minutes.

Bread at present is not leaping over the moon in price, so why not take advantage of the fact. If Hubby is not a "bread" for potatoes, omit them, using bread and gravy, or milk toast, or Welsh Rarebit.

Welsh Rarebit

1 pound cream cheese
1 heaping dessert spoon corn starch
1 egg
1-2 cup cream
Dissolve corn starch in cream. Beat egg and add to mixture. Cut up cheese and pour in mixture. Put in double boiler and stir until melted and about to thicken. Add glass of beer or ale, continue to stir season-long with salt to taste and adding paprika liberally. Stir until right consistency for serving. Serve on dry caraway rye bread or toast, as preferred.

Although in this country, rice is used more as a pudding than as a vegetable dish, it also may be used as a potato substitute to add to the variety of each day's menu.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

If your pancakes have a tendency to stick to the griddle, try rubbing it with the cut side of a raw potato instead of greasing it. This will usually prevent sticking even when grease consistently fails.

The art of seasoning lies in blending and developing the flavors of the main ingredients; never in smothering them out of all recognition. A small amount of sugar, for instance, is frequently used in the preparation of meat and fish sauces; not to sweeten, but to point up and harmonize the flavors of the fish or meat, and the other ingredients of the sauce.

To be certain of turning out a fine grained light cake, when you receive a hurried call from the Ladies Aid to send a cake over to the bakery sale, try to observe the following

TOPPY'S TRAVELS

Synopsis: Toppo leaves his home to follow his canary, Linny, who flies away. After an adventure with Mr. Frog, he makes friends with Toy, a little dewdrop, whom he saves from death. As a reward for learning so quickly at Toy's school, he is given a robe and sent to see the Queen. The robe is stolen by the Pillows, but he finds the Cloud-Queen, and promises to help her escape from the Pillows who have kept her a prisoner.

When he reached the door, followed by the malice, he pushed against it with all his strength, but was unable to push it open.

He turned in dismay. "I can't open the door, either," he exclaimed, and his face was screwed up with disappointment. If they couldn't get out, how could he be a general?

He heard a spiteful laugh on the other side of the door. The Pillows were laughing because they couldn't escape. It made Toppo very angry.

"I'll show them!" he yelled and ran to the window. The ground was a long drop from the window. The country folds stretched out before them for as far as Toppo could see.

points in making the cake:

1. Do not use too much baking powder.
2. Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy.
3. Use cold solid shortening, instead of melting it.

In looking over last fall's wardrobe, do you find a velvet dress which would sail gallantly through another season, if only it were cleaned? One way to restore the color and to clean it is to brush it lightly on the right side with a sponge dipped in chloroform. This must be done in front of a window and away from fire as the fumes of chloroform are likely to produce drowsiness and headache.

made you general, I had a plan," explained the Cloud-Queen. "If we could only open the door, at night when the Pillows were asleep, you could kill the Pillow-Queen's guards, take her prisoner, carry her out of the country and force her to call all the Pillows out of my realm. I'm afraid you will have to wait a few days, until the door is unlocked again to allow the horrid Pillow-Queen's son to enter. He is a mean, naughty boy, and his mother permits him to come in here and tease us, because he thinks it is fun."

"Why was the door unlocked, when I fell into this room?" Toppo wondered.

"The Queen's son had just been teasing us, when you came, and the door was unlocked. You chased them away, before they had time to lock it, but as soon as you were in, they locked it again. I heard them."

So they waited until the next day, but the Pillow Queen's son did not come. "Oh, I'm so hungry," groaned Toppo. "Aren't you?"

"No, it isn't necessary for us to eat more than once a year," the Cloud-Queen told him.

Toppo grew hungrier and hungrier, until finally he could stand it no longer. Holding his sword tightly in his hand, he said good-bye to the Queen, and slid down a moonbeam to the ground.

"I'll be back soon," he called, and waved his hand.

SOWING AND REAPING

St. Paul of the New Testament at one time wrote a trite statement when he briefly and to the point said, "Whatsoever a man sows he shall also reap." That was nothing new. Every one knew that. If one sowed any kind of seed he naturally expected to reap just what he sowed and many more than what he sowed.

It may be that every one knew that what he said was true, yet every one had not thought of it in the application of which he was making the statement. This may be true of ordinary seed but what had this to do with our actions and character? Is it really true, as he said it was, that whatever one sows with his life that he shall also reap it?

Commenting upon this subject someone has said, that if we sow certain thoughts we reap certain actions. If we sow these actions we reap a habit. If we sow our habits we reap character. And when we sow our character we will reap our destiny. There is more truth in this than we perhaps imagine.

If one sows only, to their physical desires, passions, and appetites he will, as St. Paul says, of these reap corruption. Many who have filled an early grave died a victim of uncontrolled appetites and passions. In some cases it may take more courage and strength to master one's self than it does to rule over others.

He that sows to his mind, that is to the development and training of his mental capacities, shall from it reap a life more abundantly here and now. An education widens the horizon of knowledge and life's interests. It surely contributes to the enrichment of our life in lifting us out of ignorance and superstition.

"He that sows to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting," said St. Paul in amplifying his statement regarding sowing and reaping. It is a fact, isn't it, that almost without exception if we sow kind words that is what we shall reap. We have all heard the poetic expression, "That a kind answer turna away wrath." The opposite is also true that if we sow cruel and harsh words we usually reap the same. If a man sows deeds of kindness without fail he will reap the same most of the time. If we sow true friendship we shall reap true friends. If we sow hatred we shall be hated, and if we sow deception as surely as the night follows the day we too shall be deceived. In all these, and in numerous other ways this principle of life of reaping whatever we sow, holds true.

The author of these words might also have said with equal truth, whatever we sow others usually reap with us or for us. When a man is a criminal his children or members of his own family also reap the shame and disgrace of what he has sown. Here again the opposite is equally true. When a man is elected president of the United States his family shares equally with him the honors which are his when perhaps he alone merits his position in life. Who of us has not benefited because of the honesty and esteem with which our parents may have been held in the communities in which we may have lived? Wherever this is true we have helped to reap what they have sown.

It should be worth our while to live righteously if for no other reason than the fact that there are others who shall reap with us and for us what we have sown.

Even Informal Parties
Require a Food SurpriseBy JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

THE informal party is, perhaps, the most delightful of all; but its chief charm, from the standpoint of food, lies in those dainty dishes with which every hostess likes to surprise her guests.

If one entertains frequently, it often seems difficult to have something entirely new and different. However, just a little extra care in planning will make all your "party dishes" remembered—and this without any need for an elaborate menu. In fact, a creamed meat on toast garnished with olives and pickles, or a distinctive salad accompanied by novel sandwiches, is all that any hostess need plan for an informal affair.

Below you will find suggested some simple party menus that are particularly attractive. And I am sure they will help you to plan many others that are similarly unpretentious.

Fresh Peach Mousse
Chocolate Ice Box Cookies
Iced Tea or Coffee

Frozen Chocolate Plum Pudding
Individual Angel Food Cakes
Coffee

Chicken Shortcake - Hot Biscuits
Preserved Sweet Gherkins
Crisp Potato Chips
Mint Coffee

Mixed Fresh Fruit Salad
Sandwiches or Crisp Cookies
Salted Nuts Coffee

Chocolate Ice Box Cookies: Melt 1 cup shortening and add 1 1/2 cups sugar. Add 1 egg, and 2 squares chocolate melted over hot water. Then add 2 1/2 cups flour, 2 tablespoons baking powder, and 1/4 teaspoon salt, sifted together. Gradually add 3 tablespoons milk to make a very stiff dough, and work in 1 cup fine shavings. Place in a bread pan, cover with waxed paper, and set in a refrigerator over night.

Slice thin and bake in a moderately hot oven—400 degrees F.—for eight minutes. This recipe makes about fifty cookies two inches square.

Frozen Chocolate Plum Pudding: Scald 3/4 cup milk in a double boiler, and add 1/3 cup sugar mixed with 2 tablespoons flour. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add 2 beaten egg yolks and cook for several minutes, then add 1 square bitter chocolate, melted over hot water. When cool, add 2 stiffly beaten egg whites, chill, and fold in 1/2 pint whipped cream. Last, fold in 1 cup Pure Mince Meat, 1/4 cup chopped English Walnut meats and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Place in trays of refrigerator to freeze, stirring occasionally, or freeze in a regular freezer.

Chicken Shortcake: Sift together 2 cups flour, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Add 4 tablespoons shortening, using 2 tablespoons butter and 2 of lard. Blend the fat with the flour mixture, add milk to form a firm dough, and mix very lightly. The amount of milk will be from 2/3 to 3/4 cup. Toss the dough on a lightly floured board and pat 1/4 inch thick. Shape with a cutter and place hot creamed chicken or other creamed meat between the halves and on top of the biscuits. Garnish with Stuffed Spanish Olives and Preserved Sweet Gherkins.

To prepare the creamed chicken—Sift 4 tablespoons butter in saucepan and blend with 4 tablespoons flour. Add 2 cups rich milk and the mashed yolk of 2 hard boiled eggs. Cook until thick and season with salt, pepper, paprika and a few drops of Worcestershire Sauce. Add about 1/2 cup chicken and ham, minced, or veal, and 1/2 cup Stuffed Spanish Olives, sliced, saving the remainder of the olives for garnishing.

Salted Nuts: Pour boiling salt water over shelled almonds or filberts, and allow to stand for about 2 minutes in the water. Then place them between towels and rub, when the skins will come off easily. Cook the nuts in a skillet with several tablespoons of Pure Olive Oil, having the oil hot when the nuts are added. Cook until the nuts are brown, drain on heavy paper, and sprinkle lightly with salt.

Dividend Printing

There is one kind of printing that you want—printing that pays a dividend on the investment.

A letterhead with right sort of type properly balanced is a real business asset. It wins the approval of the person receiving your letter, and while he is in this frame of mind your letter is read.

The same reasoning applies to any other job of printing. Neatness, the right weight and kind of paper, the color of the ink, the selection of the type, all play an important part in the production of dividend printing.

We are equipped to give you the kind of printing that will prove its value to you.

PRINTING RESULTS

The one big thing we are interested in when you come here to buy printing is not primarily how big the order, but—how can we do the job to insure you maximum satisfaction. We know that if you get results you will be back for more printing of the same kind.

A Look into the Future

Suppose a crystal gazer, gifted with the power to lay the future before our eyes, parts the curtains and gives us a glimpse into the future—

Before our eyes unfolds a picture of CONTINUED and INCREASING prosperity for our America—already the most prosperous nation in the world!

An increase of millions of population in the United States.

Transportation systems developed to such a degree that distant rural sections become easily accessible suburbs.

Industry, decentralized from the few congested areas, following the present trend toward the smaller community, closer to raw material, lower overhead, ideal labor conditions.

A healthier, happier race, working shorter hours, taking full value of play hours, yet producing MORE in the shorter working time because of increased efficiency of labor and machinery.

But enough of the general—the picture changes, and in its place we see the future of OUR OWN COMMUNITY! Opportunities have been grasped, possibilities realized. Each sees the result of having done his part. WE HAVE BECOME THE ONE OUTSTANDING TOWN IN TEN WITH EVEN A GREATER GOAL BEFORE US!

We have MADE people like us; trade with us; live with us. Not just through HAPPENSTANCE, but because we have made OUR town a better place in which to live than other towns; better schools; better churches; better health conditions; better working conditions; we have made OUR town more beautiful, and have given it a more pleasant personality!

We have made it a BETTER BUSINESS TOWN because we have made people like to come to do business with us. And we have grasped our opportunities as they have been presented to us, and have made our town a good place to earn a living in by bringing industry to it, and by expanding our trade radius.

Through our schools, churches, clubs and business organizations, we have perfected our present policy of making those living outside our corporate limits FEEL THEY ARE A PART OF OUR TOWN, by joining with us in our every community activity.

Property values increased—business better—population doubled. Community detriments removed; community possibilities improved!

Health, wealth, prosperity for all, because we all did our part!

And from the inspiration of this fleeting glimpse into our future we turn to TODAY and DO our part in the fulfillment of this future for our community!

The past, the present, and the future! We have reviewed the past of our community with respect and reverence for the pioneers of this community; we have safeguarded the present with a sincere study and survey of community conditions and problems; NOW LET US SAFEGUARD OUR FUTURE by DOING our part of making OUR community THE ONE IN TEN

Road Mara Beauty of Famous Mont St. Michel

Modern vagabondism has its good as well as bad points. It was to facilitate access to Mont St. Michel, on the Normandy coast, that the high concrete dike, running from Pontorson for a mile and a half, was built. Instead of the galloping horses which used to drive pilgrims and tourists to the famous abbey at low tide along a natural sand bank, one now sees endless rows of cars running side by side with a small train. It is much more convenient, as one can go or leave the place at any hour. However, that high nasumersible wall has had a disastrous effect on the beauty of the site. The sands gradually rose about the coast, soon spending above the water mark, and the thrifty sheep herders, realizing the quality of the short salty grass that grew there, led their animals further and further away. The coast is continually altering and ruining the isolation of that strange rocky island on which the old gothic abbey is built. It has finally been decided to cut off the dike at the most favorable spot and build a bridge over the gap. Then the sea is expected to draw the sands so that the Mont will be freed from them.

THE STORY

Renewing a childhood attachment, Ernestine Briceand, of a wealthy family, is attracted by Will Todd, newspaper artist, son of a carpenter. They lunch together and recall their school days. Ernestine's sister, Lillian, knowing their father would disapprove, urges her to end the affair, but Ernestine refuses. The love-making progresses rapidly. They make a runaway marriage.

CHAPTER II—Continued

"Not at all," said Will quickly. "But anyhow, we are married. I know this strikes you suddenly, sir, but we just decided in haste, and as we want nothing but your blessing—"

"He still!" exclaimed papa passionately, and he turned to Ernestine. "Where were you married? By whom?"

Will took the conversation into his own hands with deliberation.

"We went to town about noon, went to the courthouse and got our license, then to a jeweler and bought the ring and waited while it was engraved." Ernestine held up her slim hand, and showed the astonishing gold band on her third finger. "Then we took a taxi out to my mother's house, got her, and went to the church I was reared in, in Avondale, and were married."

"But why this mad haste?" spluttered papa, who was almost incoherent. "Ernestine," turning to his daughter, in renewed determination to have nothing to do with Will, "what's got into you? I am sure you have been under some dreadful influence. I can't understand how you could act this way. I can't believe it."

He was furious, he was undone, but he still had a note of command in his voice. Ernestine felt his strength with terror.

"Papa—" she began, but Will cut in resolutely, so that in spite of papa's determination to talk to Ernestine the situation narrowed itself constantly to papa and Will.

"Ernestine was afraid, sir, that you might try to separate us. My own instinct in the matter was that we should talk this over with you, but I see, now, that she was right. You must understand, sir, that we are married, and your objections are futile."

"Ernestine had reason to fear me," papa said in a voice none of them had ever heard from him before. Ernestine felt herself shiver under it. Papa had no intention of considering himself futile.

"She had reason to fear me, and so had you. I suspect your fear was more important than her own. Even if she were a fool, you might have been decent about it. I have no intention whatever of letting her go away from here with you. You'll learn, sir, that there are such things as annulments, even as divorce. Just because she has made one foolish mistake, is no reason why I should let her ruin her whole life. You have behaved very badly, but your behavior ends here and now. Ernestine stays here. You may go, and I will deal with you outside the house."

Ernestine felt that everything was lost, but Will only laughed. If papa were new and strange, so was her young husband, for he seemed to glow, to fill out, to be bigger and stronger. "Don't be silly," he said. "Ernestine is of age. She married me of her own free will, and if you tried any such stunts, she would say so. Our marriage is entirely legal. It stands before everything else. She is now my wife, and my home is her home, and you can't detain her."

"We'll see," said papa grimly, and then mamma broke in.

"You shouldn't have, Ernestine. You shouldn't have run off and got married, without telling mamma. It's the biggest, the most important thing in your life—and to take such a step without your people knowing it! I can't bear to think you'd go off and be married—and not tell me."

"I'm sorry, mamma," said Ernestine in distress, and papa took things up again. He had made a decision. "Go to your room, Ernestine," he said in a voice of stern command, "and stay there until I can talk to you. If you insist on excusing us, we will settle this among ourselves. Do you hear me?" he said sharply, turning his furious eyes upon Ernestine. She faltered, half turned to go in automatic command, for papa had always ruled his home, without much effort, but Will put his hand on her arm.

"Stay here, Ernestine," he said in a low voice, and she paused, undecided, while mamma and Lillian seemed to be grouped together on the other side of the room.

"I can understand your distress, sir," said Will. "I can see just how you feel about this, not knowing me at all and not understanding my motives. But you exceed your authority. If you should detain Ernestine here by force, I have only to go out and get the nearest policeman and come back for her. You can't do it."

There was a moment of incredulous silence, and papa half turned to Lillian, in appeal, and Lillian said in a low tone, "He's right."

Will followed this advantage swiftly. "After all, what have you against me, except you think I may want Ernestine's money? We have decided to do without that. I'm not a stranger to you. You've known my father for thirty years. You know my people, that they are honorable and decent. There's no reason at all why I shouldn't make my marriage I choose, even with Ernestine. I'm working. I can take care of her."

Papa raised his clenched fist above his head, as though he would strike Will, and Ernestine made a little moan and mamma screamed. But Lillian put his hand on papa's arm, and drew him back. And in that moment Lillian went to Ernestine and put her arms around her and kissed her.

"Oh, Lillian!" Ernestine cried, and burst into terrible tears. "Papa, papa," she cried, turning from Lillian to her father, and holding out her hands, "don't quarrel with us. I can't bear it. I love Will. I wanted to marry him. Let us go ahead with our own married life, now, but don't quarrel with us."

Of Course Papa Was Helpless, and He Said So With a Shrug.

"It's you who have broken faith," said papa. "Not your mother and I. You've put this stranger before us. You can't have both."

Ernestine was appalled. "You mean that I can't come home?" Papa attained a grim smile.

"That's what I mean," he said, but now mamma broke in hysterically. "I won't be separated from Ernestine. I won't permit it," she cried, and went to her younger daughter and took her in her arms. "Darling, you can come home as long as mamma lives here. I will see you every day. It's dreadful. It's hard on all of us, but mamma will not let her little girl go away like this."

"Ernestine," said papa, and he turned to him, as full of anger as he. "The child is married," she exclaimed. "She may have made a mistake, but if she has, it is only a reason for standing by her. This is my home, as well as yours. I won't be instructed to let my little girl go out friendless. You may do what you like with me, and send me away, too, if you can, but I am going to see Ernestine. I am going to have her here."

Of course papa was helpless, and he said so with a shrug.

"Mamma," said Ernestine, "I am willing to take the responsibility for my marriage. After all, it's I who married Will."

"Not you alone," said mamma vigorously. "The whole family has married him, and we may as well realize it. For nobody marries just one of the Briceands. We are all going to stand together, always. Papa, we will have to make the best of it. The marriage will have to stand."

Papa would not look at her, nor answer.

"We'll have to go," said Will. "Goodbye, darling," said mamma, and embraced her. "I'll see you soon."

"Goodbye, papa," Ernestine faltered, but papa held his stubborn attitude. "I'll have to go upstairs and get some things," murmured Ernestine, as they went into the hall.

Lillian went upstairs with Ernestine. Mamma came out and put her hand on Will's arm.

"He good to her," she implored. "If you can't take care of her, if she's not happy, let her come back."

"I will, Mrs. Briceand," he said soberly. "I appreciate what you have done."

Mamma wept afresh. "It is hard for her father. He worships her. You must understand him."

It is a terrible blow to him. He will come around."

The girls came down the stairs, and after a moment Ernestine and Will were out in the dark street again, with her small dressing case in Will's hands. The family stood about in the living room in stricken silence.

The silence lasted for some moments, then Mrs. Briceand turned to her husband.

"You should never have let her go off like that," she said reproachfully. "What will she do?"

"I had no intention of letting her go, if you hadn't interfered," he exclaimed. "I was only threatening her with the loss of the family, in order to get her to stay here—to gain a little time."

"She wouldn't have done it," said Lillian. "She's too crazy about him. It probably was her idea that they get married first. She meant it. You couldn't have kept her."

"How much do you suppose he earns, on the Sun?" asked mamma, and Lillian answered:

"Probably anywhere from twenty-five to forty dollars a week."

At that papa threw up his hands in a gesture of despair and turned to leave the room, but he looked back at his wife darkly.

"If you had stood by me," he said to her, "if we had all stood together, we could have held her here. You went back on me, both you and Lillian. It gave them courage. Now, you can think of her, God knows where, with that upstairs." He went into the hall, and mamma followed him, her bright persistent voice coming down the stairs.

"You shouldn't have let them go. We might have kept them both here, and taken care of them. Lewis, you'll have to make up your mind to give in, and get him a better job."

The voices trailed off, and an upstairs door closed upon them. Grandmother went stiller out of the room, satisfying her need for order by pushing the chairs in place, straightening the pillows and moving the things on the table. Lillian stood by the fire, staring into it, his face flushed, one hand opening and closing nervously.

Lillian came and spoke to him in a voice which was already like mamma's. "I'm sorry you got into this," she said. "It's terrible. How can Ernestine act that way? She's the most imprudent thing. But this is the worst yet. I feel as though she had ruined herself. But you aren't going to be angry with her, are you, Lillian?"

"No," he said. "No, I won't be angry with her. Your mother's right. The family must stand by her."

Lillian shuddered a little. "It seems dreadful to me," she said. "Ernestine out somewhere in Chicago, with that man. I don't see how she can be crazy about him in the first place, and how she could have married him in the second."

Lillian reached out his hand and ran his fingers down the crepe sleeve of her dress, caught her fingers and held them in his own.

"Would you do that much," he asked wistfully, "if you cared for a man? Would you defy everything for him?"

"I don't know," said Lillian honestly. "I don't know. I want things nice. I want some plan and arrangement to my life."

"But if the man you cared for was not—eligible," he persisted, "would you marry him anyhow?"

"It's not a fair question," protested Lillian, and then added softly: "I don't know what I would do. Because I've cared for only one man, and he has been eligible in every way. So I can't imagine how I would act under other circumstances."

There was a little silence, and then he said, in a stilled voice:

"Is it I, Lillian?"

She looked up at him, and his face was full of suffering. Her own was compassionate.

"Did you care for Ernestine, Lillian?" she asked him, but he shook himself quickly.

"No, no!" he exclaimed. "Not—that way. I'm fond of her. She's been like a little sister to me, always. But it's you I care for. It's you I want for my wife. Is it possible that you care for me, Lillian?"

"I always have," she answered simply, and he stared down at her, and again his voice was queer and strained.

"I'm like Ernestine," he said, "what I want is love."

She put up her fair sweet face, and he kissed her plucked lips.

"I love you, Lillian," she assured him, and he took her roughly into his arms.

"You hurt me," she complained in a moment, and he released her and stood holding her hand gently.

"I want love," he said again with poignancy, and Lillian assured him in her quick bright voice that she loved him.

Grecian Influence on Culture of Old Rome

Almost as far back as the history of Rome extends Greek influences are to be traced in the development of Roman culture. The Roman people were conservative and slow to cultivate the artistic sense. Rome had little creative genius. In her whole history she did not produce an artist such as Phidias and Praxiteles. The nature of the Roman was usually practical and idealized power, law and profit. The Romans never created a distinctive style of architecture such as the Greeks. They borrowed their architecture from the Etruscans and the Greeks. The literary life of Rome has a profound effect upon mankind—Cicero with his orations, political and educational treatises; Caesar with his commentaries on the Gallic war; Sallust with his history of Rome; the poets Lucretius and Catullus. These poets, however, do not compare with the illad and Odyssey of Homer, the Greek philosophers Plato and Aristotle, Socrates, Xenophon and the orators Lyndis and Isocrates.

Known Only by Tradition

Tradition has attached the name of Diogenes to the thief who repeated on the cross, when the Savior was crucified, and Gestas to the important one. Both names are highly probable.

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

Unsolved Riddles That Still Puzzle Authorities Here and Abroad

The Waterloo Bridge Murder

ONE of the finest bridges in the world, Waterloo bridge in London, commands a magnificent view of the western part of the city between Westminster and St. Paul's, as well as the Thames embankment and the massive, but well-proportioned facade of Somerset house. The bridge has figured prominently in the history of the City of London and has also been the scene of a number of crimes, the most striking of which was known as the "Waterloo bridge murder," the more remarkable because it occurred in the midst of a crowded city.

The finding of a carpet bag by a passing policeman was the first step which led to the discovery of the fact that a murder had been committed. Upon examination, the bag was found to contain portions of a human body—the head, the greater portion of the spine, the hands, feet, and the left side of the chest.

The questions submitted to the medical inspectors at Scotland Yard had reference to the sex, age and height of the deceased; the cause of death; the period which had elapsed between the occurrence of death and the finding of the body; whether or not the body had been used as a subject for anatomical research and the presence of any peculiarities which might result in an identification of the remains. On the whole, these questions were answered with a thoroughness and accuracy possible only through the work of a body of trained investigators. The remains, declared the medical experts, were those of a man who, judging from the full development of the man had been dark haired and a malformation of one of the feet made it probable that he had walked with a slight limp.

The cause of death was plainly apparent. A wound had been inflicted with some long and narrow instrument between the third and fourth ribs on the left side of the chest, piercing directly to the heart. The appearance of the wound led the inspectors to declare that it must have been inflicted during life or immediately after death, the former alternative being the more consistent with the facts in the case. In short, the cause of death appeared to be entirely consistent with the theory of murder of a very deliberate type.

Equally important, from the viewpoint of the detectives, was the fixing of the definite date of the crime, but on such point it was necessary to rely mainly on speculation, for direct evidence could not of course be offered. The perfect state of preservation of the remains, however, indicated they must have been subjected to some process of preservation, probably with a view to preventing discovery of the crime through decomposition. The portions of the body had, the experts declared, been boiled and salted, thus adding another factor to the already large number of indications of the extremely cold-blooded nature of the crime. The fact that the remains had thus been artificially preserved rendered the calculation of the period of death uncertain, but the examiners came to the conclusion that the man must have been dead for at least three or four weeks before the remains had been found on Waterloo bridge.

Not a particle of evidence was ever forthcoming that the body had been used for anatomical purposes. On the contrary, the manner in which the parts had been separated by a saw proved the murderer to have been entirely ignorant of even the rudiments of anatomical knowledge.

For many months efforts were made to identify the mutilated remains, but although persons came from all parts of England and even from across the channel to view the ghastly evidence, not the slightest clue was ever discovered, either to the murderer or the murdered. Every mysterious disappearance in London for months previous to the finding of the body was investigated, criminals of all types were rounded up and examined and the entire machinery of Scotland yard was set in motion to no avail. The Waterloo bridge murder remained—as it remains today—one of the crimes to which not the slightest clue has ever been discovered.

Negro Baby Death Rate Far Higher Than White

A greater proportion of the babies of negro parents die than of white parents, whether born in country or city, this most marked difference being in the urban areas of the South. The United States public health service comes to this conclusion after study of the United States census reports and state mortality records for a group of northern and southern states and four southern cities. The trend for negro babies was found usually to follow that for white babies in the same locality; in two cities—Baltimore and Richmond—the mortality rate for negro infants has declined more rapidly than that for white. As in the case of white babies the mortality for negro children is extremely high during the first month of life, but the rates for the latter do not decrease as rapidly as for the white during the later months of the first year of life; pneumonia is one of the principal causes of the high excess of negro deaths between the fifth and tenth month.—United States Children's Bureau.

After 40 Bowel trouble is Most Dangerous

Constipation may easily become chronic after forty. Continued constipation at that time of life may bring attacks of piles—and a host of other disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. When they need help, remember a doctor should know what is best for them.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Next time just take a spoonful of this family doctor's laxative. See how good it tastes; how gently and thoroughly it acts. Then you will know why it has become the world's most popular laxative. Big bottles—all drugstores.

Cost of Learning to Fly Learning to fly costs a private pilot an average of $550 and eight and one-half weeks of his time, a survey of the Department of Commerce reveals, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Tuitions for private licenses in approved flight-instruction schools were found to range from $345 to $650, exclusive of board and room, and courses ran from five and two-third weeks to two and three-fifths months as average minimum and maximum.

Daughter Is Healthy Now

"My thirteen-year-old daughter Maxine was troubled with backache and pain when she came into womanhood. I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help her because I used to take it myself at her age. Now she does not have to stay home from school and her color is good, she eats well and does not complain of being tired. We are recommending the Vegetable Compound to other school girls who need it. JUDGE HALBACK
TO PICK FEATHERED
STOCK CHAMPIONS

A famous poultry judge, William Halback, of Waterford, Wis., will judge the poultry and pet stock at the Antioch Country Fair, it was announced this week by the committee.

According to present indications, the poultry department will be the largest of the fair.

Entries from some distant points have already come in and a record entry is expected.

Many varieties of pheasants will be displayed this year. Pigeons and rabbits will also be evidenced in large numbers.

All birds will be housed in the new gymnasium and fed Quaker Oat Poultry feed furnished by The Antioch Milling Co.

IHLENFELDT TO JUDGE SCHOOL EXHIBITS

County Superintendent of Schools Ihlenfeldt of Kenosha county, will place the school exhibits at the Antioch Country Fair Oct. 9, 10, 11.

Many entries have been made in this department. In the high school division the Warren Township and the Antioch Township high schools will compete.

In the one-room school class such schools as Hickory, Newport, Grubb, Oakland, and others will compete for honors. In the larger grade schools Antioch, Lake Villa, Grayslake and Fox Lake will compete.

STATE AID A BOON TO FIRST EXHIBITION

With more than $1,500 in cash premiums and many ribbons offered to winners of exhibits in Antioch's first country fair and poultry show, inquiries coming in by scores, and the wide-spread interest being shown in all departments indicate that the event here to be held on the Antioch high school grounds and in the building, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 9, 10 and 11, will be one of the greatest country fair exhibits ever held in this part of the state.

Poultry Show Always Popular
The annual poultry show put on by the Antioch-Lake Villa Poultry association for the last six years has grown in popularity and size and quality of exhibits each year, and at the seventh annual show next week the exhibits in this department promise to be greater than ever before.

State Aid a Boon
The association, being the only active organization in the county eligible to receive state aid, applied through the Lake county board of supervisors to the state director of agriculture, and was named to receive an appropriation from the state. With additional premium money available the idea of increasing the size of the fair to include many other classes of exhibits was worked out by the committee headed by C. L. Kuttel, director of vocational agriculture in the Antioch high school, and secretary of the Poultry Association.

Department heads were selected, the premium list prepared and published and everything was all set for Antioch's first fair and showing of a wide range of exhibits.

Pheasant Display
"Those who are interested in pheasants should see the large display that will be shown this year," says Secretary Kuttel. Nearly every variety will be shown, according to entries already made, and the Skokie Valley Farms of Zion, Ill., will bring a large exhibit. The large showing of the common and some of the rarer specimens will be sure to prove an attraction.

Corn Display Promising
Many corn entries are coming in and the display should be a large one. Prizes on corn varieties are very attractive and should draw one of the largest corn exhibits ever shown in this region.

FAMOUS CLOWNS AT ANTIOCH FAIR

There is something about a clown act—if it is clever—that appeals to both old and young. This is especially true in the case of an outdoor audience, where the crowds are usually enjoying a holiday and are in the right mood to laugh. The Antioch Country Fair has engaged the act of Raymond & Marcus, two Merry Joeys who have appeared with most all the leading circuses of the country for the past five years. Raymond & Marcus are not just clowns, but pep up their offerings with some good acrobatic stunts. They have a reputation for originating new and funny stunts, many of which have made a hit with circus fans and are still used by the big tops. These two boys seem to know what an audience likes and keep it in an uproar of laughter from start to finish. Their table-rocking stunt never fails to hold the crowd in suspense and gives a big thrill at the finish. They will be seen at all performances during the fair, both in the afternoon and evening of October 9, 10 and 11.

Welcome FAIR WEEK Visitors

TWO FINE BANDS TO PLAY CONCERTS
DURING THE FAIR

Two band concerts, one on Oct. 10th and the other Saturday evening, Oct. 11th will feature the evening programs at the Antioch Fair.

The Allendale Farm Boys' Band will present a concert on Friday evening beginning about 7:30 and the Nash Motors Band of Kenosha will be here on Saturday evening to present a real treat to the large crowds expected at this time. The Nash Motors band is secured through the courtesy of the Main Garage.

southern Wisconsin vicinities are interested in the plain sewing and fancy work exhibits and the showing should be a large one if present indications mean anything.

Other Departments to Exhibit
The poultry department is to be the largest of them all and will occupy the main floor of the new gym. The Educational department under the supervision of Wm. C. Petty will have some eight or nine entries of booths showing the work of the schools of Lake county. Some of the schools that have entered are as follows: Antioch High school, Grubb High school, Antioch Grade school, Lake Villa, Grayslake, Fox Lake, Oakland, Grubb, Newport, Hickory. Others may still enter.

The Vocational department will display dairy calves, sheep, and hogs, raised by boys in their project work under High School supervision. Entries do not have to be made until entry day on October 9th as anyone still wishing premium catalogues should write C. L. Kuttel, Secretary, at Antioch, Ill.

Judges Being Secured
Wm. Halbach of Waterford, Wisconsin, will again judge the poultry and pet stock exhibit. Mr. Halbach is an American Poultry association judge and licensed by the State Department of Wisconsin.

Amateurs May Also Compete in Flower Show at Country Fair

Amateurs as well as professionals will have a chance to exhibit their flowers at the Antioch Country Fair, October 9, 10 and 11, according to an announcement made today to the effect that a separate class is being made for amateurs so that they will not be obliged to exhibit in competition with professional flower growers. Amateurs are invited to bring exhibits.

The flower show may be visited day or night during the three days of the fair.

will judge the Educational exhibits. Other judges are being secured.

Children Admitted Free

All school children will be admitted free to the grounds at any time and on the 11th being a Saturday, parents should make a special effort to bring their children and give them the opportunity of seeing the many exhibits and free attractions. There will also be a merry-go-round and Ferris wheel and other entertainment for them and the grown ups.

Lunches will be served on the grounds each day.

COMMERCIAL AND STATE EXHIBITS TO BE BEST IN HISTORY

There will be many commercial exhibits this year at the Antioch Country Fair, many of which will be on display outdoors. Perhaps the largest exhibit on the grounds will be that of the State Department of Agriculture which will show the work being done by the State of Illinois in the line of agriculture and related fields. The International Harvester company and the Public Service company will display farm machinery and electrical farm equipment. The Public Service company will also have an electrical household equipment display inside the
